DYSPEPSIA.

IS that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diabolical arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir from which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system. Among a dozen dyspeptics no two will have the same predominant symptoms. Dyspeptics of active mental power and a bilious temperament are subject to Sick Headache; those, fleshy and phlegmatic have Constipation, while the thin and nervous are abandoned to gloomy forebodings. Some dyspeptics are wonderfully forgetful; others have great irritability of temper.

Whatever form Dyspepsia may take, one thing is certain,

The underlying cause is in the LIVER, and one thing more is equally certain, no one will remain a dyspeptic who will

LOYALTY.

They live in the halls of the heroes—
The world's Valhalla gray—
True knights, who in storm and battle
Flung the scabbard of life away.

Following a single watchword,
Dying and undismayed,
For the red rose of the Lancaster
Or the Stuart's white cockade.

Oh, clear as the blast far ringing
From the tips of Roland's horn,
That word and its passionate meaning
On the breath of the past is borne!

What though the cause were worthless,
Though the faith rang false when tried?
With as godlike self surrender
They fought on the erring side.

Borne down in the tide of battle
They died, and are conquerors still,
By Culloden or Roncesvalles,
By Cressy or Malvern Hill!

Where the forces of life are meeting,
Strong souls, like warriors, stand
On the side of their Lord's Anointed,
Still ready, sword in hand.

For the white ideal of honor,
The crown of their manhood's pride,
For the rose of a love unsullied,
Into the fight they ride.

Strong in a faith unshaken,
Loyal as those of old,
They lift over storm and struggle
Their oriflamme's white fold.

They raise up hands of power,
They strike where wrong defies,
For a dream, a trust, a symbol,
In a rapture of sacrifice.

Their shield still flings its shelter
The weary and weak above—
For the loyal arm gives justice,
And the loyal heart gives love!
—G. A. Davis in Frank Leslie's.

The Australian Tree Well.

In the vast rainless tracts of central Australia, where water in the shape of streams, ponds, wells, etc., is unknown, and where thousands of gold seekers, travelers, hunters and others have perished with thirst, the country is found to be tolerably populated by a hardy race known as "Bushmen." For the past century it has been a standing wonder how these human beings managed to exist in such an arid region. It now turns out that nature has made provisions for the welfare of living creatures even in that inhospitable section of the antipodes. Here the eucalyptus tree, which grows 200 to 300 feet high in more favorable localities, grows to but eight or ten feet, gnarled and thickly jointed, like a reed.

Herein lies the secret of the Bushman's existence. The joints of this dwarf eucalyptus are hollow and filled with pure water, the size of the joint regulating the amount of water to be found within. More than one unlucky being has laid down in the shade of one of these Australian well trees to die of thirst when one stroke with his knife or "machete" would have caused a life giving stream to burst forth.—St. Louis Republic.

Dr. Judson Tells a Story.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Judson tells of a Baptist who had been very sick. The physician had given him some medicine, and told him he could go out, but under no circumstances was he to get wet. The man went out on the farm, and a shower of rain came up suddenly. There was no shelter near, and to save himself he crawled into a hollow log. The action of the rain caused the log to shrink so as to endanger his life.

He could not move, and being brought face to face with death the whole of his past life came before him as in a panorama; he remembered the days of his childhood, his entrance upon life, his successes and his sins; then he remembered, last of all, that when he left home that morning he refused his wife, when she asked him, for fifty cents for the church, and the thought made him feel so small that he had no difficulty in walking out of the log.—New York Herald.

Birth of the Car Cable.

The sight of six horses vainly endeavoring to take a street car up one of the steep hills of San Francisco inspired in Inventor Halliday's mind the idea of the cable car system. The hill was slippery as well as steep. One horse fell and carried down his mate. The other horses tumbled, until the six were in a struggling heap. The weight of the car dragged them down to the foot of the hill, bruising and maiming them. Mr. Halliday, looking on, was filled with compassion for the poor brutes, and he says he went to work at once on plans for a substitute for horse power. His thinking brought him to the cable system.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cheapness and Dissatisfaction.

Don't you feel sorry for the woman who haunts the bargain room counters? About her face is a weary, anxious look, and her clothes have rather a tawdry air. It is proper they should, for the very word "tawdry" is derived from St. Audrey, on whose day fairs were held, when the bargain seeking dames were induced to buy worthless things because they were cheap. As if anything you didn't want was ever cheap! Although the old St. Audrey's fair is closed, practically it still exists, for the same result follows all purchases such as were made there, i. e., dissatisfaction.—New York Sun.

France consumes from 4,000,000 to 4,500,000 kilograms of raw silk annually, which may be valued at 220,000,000 to 270,000,000 francs. If to this be added the value of the wool and cotton yarns used in mixed fabrics, the total value of the raw material used by the silk industry is found to be from 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 francs.

A DEAD LINE FOR CROOKS

WALL STREET AND BIG BUILDINGS CLOSELY GUARDED.

Why Men of Doubtful Reputation and Questionable Appearance Are Prohibited from Being Inside of New York's Recognized Money Center.

The Equitable building is one of the largest general office buildings in the world. Its actual floor space is about 400,000 square feet, equal in extent to eight or ten city blocks. It is a busy, bustling city in itself, and is occupied by nearly 4,000 tenants.

A special police force of seven men are constantly on duty in the halls and corridors. They are under the command of ex-Detective Sergeant Dusenbury who for nearly thirty years was on the detective force of this city, and was one of the best known and most successful of Inspector Byrnes' staff. There are few men who have a wider acquaintance with the outlaws of society. He has been the guardian ever since the arcade was opened, and it is owing to the vigilance displayed by him and his subordinates that so little annoyance has been suffered by the tenants and the general public.

It is thoroughly understood by the lawless element and by professional criminals that they are not allowed below John street. Inspector Byrnes long ago issued an order to his down town detectives to arrest any known thief, burglar, confidence man or others of that class who intruded upon that section of the city. Broadway, Nassau, Wall and Broad streets are constantly patrolled by the sharpest and keenest officers in the inspector's command. Professional criminals, aware of the sharp lookout as a usual thing give the financial center of the city a wide berth.

But in spite of the vigilance occasional visits are made by the more daring or by those who believe they are not personally known to the detectives. But they are so soon spotted and so closely watched that no serious case of depredation has been known for a number of years. When these people do venture down town they invariably visit the Equitable building.

WATCHING "CHECK BEATERS."

In the Cafe Savarin another special detective is employed to look after the undesirable customers in that favorite resort of down town business men. Theodore Wandell who was for a long time one of Pinkerton's agents looks out for this special corner in the busy city. He, too, keeps a bright lookout that no professional rogues enter the place and rub elbows with their honest neighbors. But with Dusenbury and his force keeping general guard over the whole building he is seldom called upon to exercise his authority over the more serious characters, and his duties are generally confined to looking after check beaters.

"Check beaters are our special annoyance here," said Mr. Wandell to a reporter. "You would be surprised to see how many men attempt to beat the bar and the lunch counter. Their method is a very simple one and nearly the same in all cases. An apparent gentleman comes in, steps up to the bar and calls for a drink and receives his check. He then goes to the lunch counter, orders a more or less elaborate lunch which he eats leisurely, and receives another check. Then he visits the cigar counter, selects a cheap cigar and gets another check and finally walks to the cashier's desk, throws down his cigar check and the change and walks out with the other two checks in his pocket. They may be successful for a few times, but eventually we discover their game and then we take our innings.

"We are very careful not to make a mistake in following up gentlemen of this ilk. We sometimes allow them to go through their operations several times in succession until we are absolutely certain that it is their intention to cheat the place. We quietly inform them that they are discovered and tell them to make restitution for the checks they had not formerly paid for. Of course these men are never allowed in the place again."

A BIG CHANCE FOR THIEVES.

There is one roving class of people that even the sharp eyed detectives are not always able to discover. Their ostensible business is honorable enough, and there are sometimes honest men among them. They are the "fakirs," peddlers and agents. There is an army of them in this city, and they circulate freely wherever men gather. Generally they are cheeky, plausible and voluble. An innocent looking parcel such as any business man might carry, often contains their stock in trade. More often they carry their entire stock in their pockets. It is these people that invade offices and stores under the guise of legitimate business but too often are nothing more or less than sneak thieves on the lookout for every opportunity to steal.

The reason for the strict police regulations as to the Wall street district are obvious to the casual visitor to that section. Every day men and boys may be seen going from office to office and from bank to bank with bags of coin on their shoulders or packages of bills in their hands. Messengers are scurrying hither and thither with stocks and bonds for delivery, sometimes in large amounts. Clerks and porters with boxes and satchels containing securities of great value are constantly coming and going to and from the different safe deposit vaults.

Express wagons with gold and bills are on the streets at all hours, and even trucks loaded with silver bricks are seen daily in front of the assay office or the bullion brokers'. There is no place in the world where so much portable wealth is handled with such apparent carelessness, and yet there is probably no place where a successful robbery could be less easily affected.—New York World.

CREPE PULLING.

A Disreputable Fraud Practiced Upon the Families of the Dead.

Reputable florists in this city are suffering greatly by a dodge called "crepe pulling," resorted to by unprincipled dealers in an attempt to increase their business. A reporter, desiring to ascertain just what the above term signified, visited several of the Broadway stores, but the majority of dealers were averse to conversing upon the subject. John B. Nugent, Jr., when spoken to, said:

"You wish to find out about this 'crepe pulling,' do you? Well, I'll tell you how the scheme is worked. Each morning these fellows pick up the papers and go through the death lists in a very careful manner. They select those people whom they know are in the middle walks of life. One of their men is then sent to the house of mourning, and he, upon entering the room where the bereaved relatives are seated, inquires in the most sorrow stricken tones what was the cause of death. Naturally, some one will ask whether he knew the deceased. And the reply will generally be that they have had many and many a good time together. Such a jolly good fellow was Jack. And they were almost brothers. He used to come over to the store every day for his bunch of violets or a pink.

"Before the relatives are aware of the fact the artful fellow has a ten or twenty dollar order. This in itself is bad enough, but when these florists make up a floral piece, instead of giving the family natural flowers, they make up the wreath, or whatever it may be, of what we term crepe flowers, an artificial flower resembling a white pink. These things are purchased at about one dollar per pound. A few natural roses are stuck into the design, and when the entire piece is made up the whole thing costs them in the neighborhood of two dollars. One cannot understand how much this pernicious practice is indulged in and what harm it does the majority of dealers."

Mr. Nugent told of a certain florist who sent one of his men down to Cherry street to a house where a woman had died. The man went up stairs, and leaning over the coffin actually forced tears to his eyes after declaring that the woman was his cousin, and while no one was looking, as he thought, strewed smilax around. The husband, a big, burly Irishman, and who, by the way, had worked in the flower business himself, caught the fellow, and after giving him a good trouncing, deposited him in the street without any show of gentleness.

"He," said Mr. Nugent, "at least got what he deserved."—New York Press.

The Place to Wear a Watch.

Half a hundred girls have been noticed lately in the Fifth avenue stages and on the west side of that thoroughfare to have little chains, with charms or lockets attached, hanging from their collars, either directly in front or a little to the left side. Not many days since a daughter of Eve, who was convinced that more was there than met the eye, determined to fathom the mystery. To that end she made frequent journeys in the stages and haunted Huyler's till her pocketbook grew emaciated, all to no end. The little chains dangled tantalizingly before her eyes, and no one told her why. At last, finding herself alone in a stage with a girl adorned after the manner described, she summoned up all her courage and asked the stranger to satisfy her curiosity.

The girl calmly produced a tiny watch, and laughingly said it was the very latest thing to wear them in the collar, "and far more convenient it is," she said, "than to poke them in front of one's dress and have to unfasten two or three buttons whenever one wants to know what time it is." The questioner meditatively felt of her serviceable but ungainly, old fashioned turnip and decided that it would necessitate putting stiffly wired Medici collars on all her frocks were she to attempt following the latest fad.—New York Recorder.

Attended His Own Funeral.

The late Captain Ben Wakefield, of Biddeford, once attended his own funeral, being one of the few men who have had that privilege. He had gone on a fishing trip down on the Grand banks, and had been away from home a good while without his family hearing from him. The same season had proved very disastrous to a number of other fishermen who went out from thereabouts, and the vessel Captain Ben was in had her share of hard luck, and the report reached home that she, with her crew, was lost.

Time passed and Captain Ben did not return, until at last his family gave up all hope that he had been saved, and a day was set for the memorial services. The services were held in the church at Cape Porpoise, the minister had offered prayer for the absent fisherman, who was supposed to have found his grave in the sea, and was just beginning his sermon when Captain Ben walked into the church.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

At a diocesan conference held recently a bishop who was about to leave for another see uttered, if one may believe the Guardian, the following farewell words:

"If in any way God uses me and permits me to do a little good work there in the last years of my life to bring people together, and to try to make peace and to show people when they are one rather than when they are not one—if anybody upsets a bottle of petroleum and sets it on fire, and if I try to throw a pail of water on it, it will be through the wisdom, and the experience, and the kindness and the many useful lessons I have learned from all of you."

Let his lordship be warned; sand is a safer extinguisher than water in the case of petroleum, as water is apt to float the burning fluid and to spread the danger.—Notes and Queries.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR.

SONOMA, AUGUST 1, 1891.

GEO. PAYNE, the English chemist, will soon arrive on this coast and will spend a good deal of time in the vineyards of Santa Clara county. Mr. Payne is the scientist who has developed the vitalistic theory of fermentation, and has worked out methods of application so that there is no longer any critical points to cause anxiety to the vigneron. The vitalistic theory is that fermentation is the result of processes of life and vegetation in lower organisms, as fungi and bacteria. Having discovered that the character of the elements was different in special bouquets an attempt was made to supply these elements and control their processes so as to always produce a like result. This Mr. Payne claims that he has succeded in doing, and his visit to this State is for the purpose of introducing his methods into the vats of Caifornia. The ferment is to be added to the grapes when they are crushed. The fermentation will be found to be more rapid, complete and even all the sugar is fermented out, thus avoiding secondary fermentations and the production of the mawkish and unpleasant taste. The ameliorating or improving effect will be recognized as soon as fermentation is complete, especially when one cuvee is left to ferment in the ordinary manner. Mr. Payne does not pretend that any change can be made on wines already made or fermented nor is it contended that with grape juice giving a bad wine excellent Bordeaux and Burgundy can be made, but the quality can be much improved and value increased by the use of the appropriate ferment at a very slight cost.—San Jose News.

GOSSIP mongers ought to all be shot, or at least those of them who are innocent of motive should be muzzled and the rest shot. The poor doggies are obliged to wear the muzzles from now on; gossip mongers deserve it quite as much, for they do society as much harm as a case or two of hydrophobia would. There are some people who can never hold their tongues, and having heard something at once sally forth to repeat it in whatever form it has struck their stupid brains. And as they usually repeat it all wrong, the harm it does is beyond words. Gossip mongers have narrow minds and are exceedingly self conscious; they imagine everyone else is a gossip monger, and that their own affairs play an important part in the general conversation of all they know. A man or woman who's mind is occupied largely with general interests, never imagines that his affairs or himself can form food for other people's talk, it never enters his mind, and and he never repeats things unless they concern himself.

A SUPPOSED wild man has been captured near Tombstone, A. T. He wore no clothing, and his skin had become tanned to a very black. He talks rationally, says he is a Californian, and first began to discard clothing when he had a skin disease. He is about thirty-five years old, six feet tall, has blue eyes, high forehead and high cheek bones. He seems to be very intelligent and uses good language.

A PHILADELPHIA preacher announced that he would more than redouble his work during the heated term, making his sermons longer and holding meetings every night in the week. Within two days his congregation had made up a purse to send him to Europe for three months.

MRS. Hopkins-Searles, one of the weathiest women in the world, died in Great Barrington, Mass., last Saturday. Her fortune was made in California and was inherited from her first husband, the late Mark Hopkins, one of the founders of the Southern Pacific Company.

THE Sonoma County Horticultural Society held a meeting in Santa Rosa last Saturday and generally agreed not to accept less than 2 or 2½ cents per pound for prunes.

THE situation in Chile remains for the most part about the same. Claudio Vicuna had at last accounts been elected president.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

To be Located in Sonoma---The Tax for its Maintenance Estimated at 7½ Cents on $100.

A meeting of the Trustees of the five School Districts forming the Sonoma Union High School District was held on last Wednesday afternoon at the Public School house in Sonoma, the following Trustees being present: B. F. Campbell, E. P. Cutter and Robert Poppe, Sonoma District; H. Appleton and Ed. Steiger, Flowery District; P. H. Thompson, Chas. Filippini and C. S. Potter, Huichica District; J. B. Morris and C. C. Carriger, Harvey District; Chas. J. Poppe and Joel M. Zane, Glen Ellen District. B. F. Campbell was called to the chair, and H. Appleton elected Secretary. The Chairman stated the object of the meeting to be the location of the proposed High School, and on motion of Robert Poppe, seconded by P. H. Thompson the same was located in Sonoma City.

An informal discussion then took place as to the amount of money that would be required to run the High School for a year and as to the rate of taxation in said Union High School district for that purpose. Finally, on motion it was decided to recommend a tax of seven and one-half cents on the one hundred dollars. This rate, it was estimated, would yield about $1350, a sum deemed sufficient and adequate for the purpose.

The Trustees of Sonoma School District tendered the Union High School Board the use of a large room in the southwest corner of the School building in which to hold the High School at a nominal rent; the proposition was referred to the High School Board, and a vote of thanks tendered to the Trustees of Sonoma. The Sonoma Trustees, however, expressed a preference for some separate building, and it is quite likely that an effort will be made to lease the large school room in the college building on Broadway for the High School.

The following were appointed a committee to interview the citizens of San Luis and Watmaugh Districts with a view of having them reconsider their unfavorable vote of July 11th, by which they decided not to enter the Union High School district, James B. Morris, H. Appleton and E. P. Cutter. At the conclusion of the meeting, the members of the Union High School Board, consisiting of the chairmen of the several School Districts, met and organized, but no particulars of such organization have been received. The following constitute the High School Board: B. F. Campbell, Sonoma; P. H. Thompson, Huichica; H. Appleton, Flowery; J. B. Morris, Harvey; J. M. Zane, Glen Ellen;

To Fruit Growers.

At a recent meeting of the State Board of Horticulture, the following action was taken which is of importance to our orchardists;

WHEREAS, We are informed that some nurserymen, through the scarcity of peach stocks for budding purposes, have contracted for large lots of Eastern peach stocks for budding purposes for next season's delivery; and

WHEREAS, There is great danger of introducing into this State the yellows, a deadly disease of the peach, on said roots and on peach trees imported from the Eastern States, and while they may not now have the disease in the locality where they get this stock, but we have no guarantee that the Eastern growers may not get trees grown in infested sections to supply the California demand from dangerous quarters; therefore be it

Resolved, That we warn intending purchasers of the dangers of getting trees infected with the yellows and other diseases and pests not now in this State; and be it further

Resolved, That we call the attention of all the Boards of county Horticultural Commissioners and Quarantine Guardians throughout the State to this danger, and in the rigid enforcement of the law to all such cases.

The Parent of Insomnia.

The parent of insomnia or wakefulness is in nine cases out of ten a dyspeptic stomach. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion interferes with it. The brain and stomach sympathizes. One of the prominent symptoms of a weak state of the gastric organs is a disturbance of the great nerve entrepot, the brain. Invigorate the stomach, and you restore equilibrium to the great center. The most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and powerful narcotics which, though they may for a time exert a soporific influence upon the brain, soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters, on the contrary, restore activity to the operations of that all important organ, and their beneficent influence is reflected in sound sleep and a tranquil state of the nervous system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given to the action of the liver and bowels by its use.

NEW TO-DAY.

Scrofula

Is more especially than any other a hereditary disease, and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease locates itself in the lymphatics, which are composed of white tissues; there is a period of fœtal life when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreadful disease. But there is a potent remedy for scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels every trace of the disease and gives to the blood the quality and color of health. Get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"When my boy was two years old he was attacked and suffered a long time with scrofula sores. The physician at length told us to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we did. Two bottles cured him. He is now 10 years old and has not had any sign of scrofula since. We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all our friends." MRS. E. C. CLIPPER, 8 Kidder St., Cleveland, O.

The horses attached to Engelbert's butcher wagon ran away at Shellville, near the residence of D. W. Lubeck, last Tuesday, during the temporary absence of the driver, who was delivering meat. The horses after running a short distance collided with a tree and were brought to a stand still. The wagon and harness were badly wrecked.

Henry Hartin and Miss Nellie Murphy, while driving near Agua Caliente, last Tuesday, were thrown from a go-cart but fortunately escaped with slight injuries. The accident was caused by one of the wheels coming in contact with a tree alongside the road, which ought to be chopped down by the Roadmaster, as it is a menace to the traveler whose mind is not constantly on the horse he or she is driving.

Last Saturday a gentleman from the city pitched his tent near the Zane farm, Glen Ellen. After getting the tent up he concluded to burn off the dry grass which grew around the camping place but almost before he had lit the match the flames leaped up and around with great rapidity, and only for the prompt action of Mrs. Zane and her daughter and a lady friend the fire would have caused considerable damage.

THE FIRE-BUGS.

One of them Arrested and Lodged in Jail.

George W. Fouts, one of the fire-bugs of this city, was captured in Nevada City this week by Officer Louis Breitenbach of Santa Rosa. Fouts, it will be remembered, made a confession to the officers but decamped before the trial came off and the other cases were thus necessarily dismissed for want of evidence, the prosecution relying solely on his testimony for a conviction. The cases dismissed last spring will probably be brought up for trial soon. Fouts is now in jail in Santa Rosa.

RUTLDEGE VS. CRAWFORD.

The Case to be Heard in the Supreme Court Next Monday.

The contested election case of Rutledge vs. Crawford, which was appealed to the State Supreme Court several months ago, will be heard in bank by that tribunal next Monday. It will be remembered that at the last election in this county the contest for the office of Superior Judge was very close between E. F. Crawford and Thos. Rutledge. The Board of Supervisors, however, acting as a canvassing Board, after counting the ballots a number of which were rejected, decided that Crawford was elected. Rutledge thereupon contested the election in the courts, and Superior Judge Dougherty, sitting at Santa Rosa, decided that Crawford was elected by one vote majority, granting him a non-suit From this decision Rutledge took an appeal to the Supreme Court, which tribunal has ordered that L. W. Juilliard, County Clerk, produce all the original ballots referred to in the transcript on appeal, either by number, photograph or copies, before said Court in bank on Monday next, August 3rd. This order shows how close the contest is, when the production of the actual ballots in court is required to determine the controversy.

SONOMA'S ASSESSMENT.

A Decrease of $3,210 from Last Year.

City Clerk Breitenbach completed the assessment roll last Monday. The total assessment amounts to $351,670 as against $354,918, for 1890, a decrease of $2,218. The following is a comparative statement of the assessment of this year with that of last year:

Assessment for Sonoma for 1890	$354,918
Assessment for Sonoma for 1891	351,670
Decrease	$3,248
Mortgages in 1891	35,060
Mortgages in 1890	$29,045
Increase	$ 6,015
Money in 1891	$10,815
Money in 1890	6,943
Increase	$ 3,872

Judgment for Plaintiffs.

The civil suits brought by F. L. Clark and Dr. W. K. Vance against Geo. Diebold, for services rendered, were tried in Judge Cheney's Court last Wednesday. There was quite an array of counsel present. Dr. Vance was represented by attorney M. B. Harrison of this place, Mr. Clark by W. E. McConnell of Santa Rosa while Mr. Diebold's interests were looked after by Burnett & Leppo. In the case of Clark, who sued for $95 judgment was rendered by Judge Cheney for $75 and costs of suit amounting to $21.90 The case of Dr. Vance was compromised by agreement, the defendant paying the sum of $9 and costs of suit, some $15.90. Thus it will be seen that out of the $150 certificate of deposit attached by the plaintiffs but $28.20 was left defendant, which will not cover the cost of his attorneys fees.

Death of Little Bertha Bartholme.

Little Bertha, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bartholme, died at her parents home last Wednesday of diphtheria after an illness of only a few days. The death of this dear little girl leaves a great void in the family as she was beloved by all for her kind and gentle disposition. But she has gone.

Only from earth to Heaven,
Only from sorrow and sin;
Only to join the angels,
Only to enter in.

The remains were followed by many sympathizing friends to the Catholic Cemetery where they were tenderly laid to rest.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1891.

Trials of an Author.

There came to a man who has had a success in literature which we should envy did we not all agree he deserves it, a lady who was neither young nor fair, but who had the assurance of youth in combination with the obstinacy of advancing years.

"I have decided," she said to him, "that I must earn my living by writing poems. I sent a poem to the Blank Magazine, and they returned it with a printed slip. Now, I want you to write to the editor, and tell him that he made a mistake."

It naturally seemed to the author that he had to deal with a humorist or a mad woman; but the lady was certainly in earnest and apparently sane. He endeavored to show her that it was not his business to interfere with the decisions of the editors of magazines, who might be supposed to know their own business. The lady insisted, however, and in the end he was forced to decline point blank to do what she asked. Thereupon she turned upon him and declared that he was one of those who endeavor to keep others out in order that they may have the field to themselves, and who are meanly jealous of other authors who are sure to eclipse them if they are but heard.

"It is all a ring," she declared with vehemence. "I have been told so before, and now I am sure of it. I can't make you do justice to me, but I can show you up."

Her method of "showing him up" has been to send letters of bitter invective to the papers, one of which fell into my hands. Of course nobody would print them, but she perseveres, and in addition to this she sends to the luckless author, whose crime is that he did not make the editor of the Blank Magazine print the rhymes of an unknown woman, a letter once a week. Of course he burns them unopened, and it is not easy to see what satisfaction it can be to the woman to keep on with this sort of thing, but the fact remains that she does. The story is not of profound importance, but it throws a curious bit of a side light upon the life of the successful author of today.—Arlo Bates in Book Buyer.

Wanting and Getting.

It has been said that the reason so few people get what they want in this world is that they do not want it hard enough. There is profound truth at the bottom of this odd conceit. Earnest striving and perseverance are rare qualities. A little struggle, and then a falling off; a few faint efforts, and then despair—this is the usual story of attempts to "get anything," whether it be a physical, mental or spiritual good. But to long for a thing so strongly that for the sake of its attainment one can conquer obstacles live down opposition, ignore discouragement and work persistently and through years of trial and obscurity toward the fulfillment of a hope—is not this the record of all grand achievements and the history of all purposeful lives?

Many more wishes might be realized if people were willing to pay this price for them. Anything worth having in this world is dear, including experience Genius itself has been defined as only unlimited patience, or an endless capacity for hard work.

It was told of some celebrated general that he never knew when he was defeated. By and by he could not be defeated A little of the same spirit infused into ordinary life work would make many a dream possible that now seems to the wistful dreamer as extravagant as the cloudiest castle in Spain.—Harper's Bazar.

The Improvised Pianist.

A few weeks ago a dancing party was given at one of the largest clubs in Vienna. The regular pianist did not turn up. A message came to say that he was ill. What was to be done? A porter ran out, hailed a cab and said to the driver:

"Drive me—faith, I don't know where."

"Why, what is it you want?"

"I want a piano player. Do you happen to know of one in the neighborhood?"

"I should think I did; in fact, close at hand. You needn't trouble to get into the cab."

"Where is he?"

"Right in front of you. I play the piano myself fairly well, and shall be glad to accommodate you."

Cabby got down from his box, took his seat at the instrument and kept the visitors dancing till break of day. What is more, he declined to accept any payment; he said he had come as an amateur and for the love of the thing. He considered himself highly honored to have been allowed to spend a night with "such grand company." Where but in Vienna could you hope to find such a sample of musical training, civility and disinterestedness among the cabbies?—Le Monde Artiste.

Shook the Deacon.

In the course of his sermon Rev. McLeod told the congregation that if any among them were asleep they had better wake up or they would miss hearing a good story. Much to the amusement of the congregation one old man left his seat, advanced a few steps up the aisle, grasped another old man by the shoulder, and, after giving him a sound shake, whispered in his ear sufficiently loud enough to be heard in all parts of the church: "Brother B.! Wake up! The elder is going to tell a story. If you would keep better hours Saturday nights you would be able to keep awake during church services." The unlooked for scene caused an audible titter in nearly every pew in the church, which in many cases had not entirely ceased when the benediction was pronounced.—Sun Prairie (Wis.) Countryman.

A cubic inch of any of the stones from which the palaces, churches and fine residences of Paris are built contains hundreds of thousands of fossils, so that it may with truth be said that Paris, together with its pavements and quays, is composed entirely of the shells of the

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. THE Bravest 500 OF '61,

A Wonderful Book made from the records of the War Department.

COMPILED BY BVT. BRIG.-GEN. T. F. Rodenbough.

Of the 2,778,304 men enlisted in the Union Army and Navy, 1861-5, a little less than 500 were especially recognized by the War Dept., as coming under the Act of Congress, July 12, 1862, for distinguished bravery, which gave them the United States Medal of Honor.

Many of the stories, told by the heroes themselves, of how they won the high distinction, are extremely interesting. That the records of these deeds are almost unknown to their countrymen, but lie buried in the pigeon holes of the War Dept., and in the recesses of their own breasts, seems astonishing.

This book must find a wide sale, for it is full of incidents that will interest every old soldier in the land, and our boys will glory in it. It is an 8vo volume of over 500 pages, with nearly 100 excellent illustrations, made specially for the work.

It reeks of its time and deserves a place in the library of all who would not altogether forget the glorious past.
